

This is my Vocation Story

Nick Martell

In the Beginning I am the fourth oldest of eight children and my parents were and are devoted Catholics, always giving amazing witness and example to all of their children. I can remember, from an early age, my mother attending daily Mass, and my family praying the Rosary together, daily. I attended Catholic school from kindergarten to eighth grade and my mom worked as a before and after school day care provider at the school. This allowed my sisters and me to attend daily Mass at a chapel in the nearby hospital, where I met one of my spiritual directors.

My Faith The wonderful example of my parents laid a beautiful foundation for me to develop in my spiritual life. My mother took her duties as our first educator very seriously. I remember spending many hours with her, making sure that I was truly prepared to receive my first Holy Communion. My father was always the leader of our daily rosary and united the family for Sunday Mass. Their Catholic faith was very important to them, to the point of scheduling our family vacations around Sunday Mass, and making pilgrimages to shrines during these vacations. I was truly blessed by our Lord to be raised by such devout parents.

Although I had this example and foundation, I let life, and my faith, get away from me. While I continued to attend Sunday Mass throughout college and law school, I didn't do much else beyond this, besides prayers of petition when I felt that I really needed help from our Lord. I had become lukewarm in my faith.

"...I turned my life over to the Lord, and asked Him to guide me, to know what my purpose would now be in life."

—Nick Martell

But my reluctance to truly embrace the beauty of my faith was no match for the Holy Spirit's persistence. In my third and final year of law school, I experienced a personal tragedy in my life that really put me at a crossroads in my faith. I immediately spoke with my spiritual director, who was instrumental in setting me on the right path, so that I would not allow my loss to interfere with my faith in our Lord. Through much prayer, shortly thereafter, I turned my life over to the Lord, and asked him to guide me, to know what my purpose would now be in life. At this point, my faith was revitalized, and I started to participate in the devotions that I allowed to lay dormant in my life. Through these devotions I was able to accept the will of the Lord and find some meaning in my loss.

My Vocation In my youth I remember feeling a call to the priesthood, however, I let high school, college, and law school, life really, get in the way of my calling. I realized our Lord was continuing to call me to the priesthood shortly after I graduated from law school and passed the bar exam.

The specific moment that I remember realizing that our Lord was calling me, was during the Papal conclave in which Pope Francis was elected pope. While I was watching the coverage of the procession of cardinals, during the Litany of the Saints, all of the memories of my religious formation, and my love for the Catholic faith, Church, and especially our Lord, filled my heart, soul, and mind. I could not help but think I had been ignoring our Lord for all of these years.

Called to serve The Summer Class of 2018

At that moment I could feel the presence of the Holy Spirit and that God was telling me that he expected more out of me. He wanted me to give myself entirely to Him, to the service of His Church, and to others.

After this moment I made a promise to the Lord that I would do everything in my power to become more involved in the Church and to discern where it is that He wanted me to serve. I started working as a lawyer and was traveling a lot for the first year of my employment so I was not really able to assist in a parish as much as I would have liked. However, I attended daily Mass when my schedule would permit and adoration weekly. Almost every priest that I would come in contact with asked if I had considered the priesthood. This made me feel encouraged this was the path God wanted me to pursue.

After about a year of working for a law firm, I decided to return home to Hesperia, CA, to work in the community I was raised in. At this time I became a member of my current parish and became very involved in several ministries. What caused me to actively pursue my vocation to the priesthood were the words of two priests, independently. First, I will be forever grateful to the pastor of my parish and the words that he spoke, when I told him about my student loan debt. He stated plainly: "Money should not be an obstacle to a vocation to the priesthood." Shortly thereafter when I was visiting my aunt and uncle at their parish, the pastor of their parish said almost the exact same words to me. At that point I listened to the Lord, through these priests, and actively pursued my vocation to diocesan priesthood.

"God was telling me that He expected more out of me. He wanted me to give myself entirely to Him, to the service of His Church, and to others."

—Nick Martell

Called to Serve While pursuing my vocation to diocesan priesthood, I attended a retreat that took place at a parish in the Diocese of San Bernardino, where Mass is only celebrated once or twice per month due to the shortage of priests. In attending Holy Mass with the community of this parish and actively participating in this retreat, I realized the true need for priests serving in parish communities and truly believe that our Lord is calling me to the diocesan priesthood to assist in the pastoral care of souls.

While I am ready to answer this call and would start formation immediately if I could, I have a very difficult obstacle to overcome: my student loan debt. Unfortunately, it will likely be awhile before I can enter formation because of this obstacle. But I believe and trust that if it is our Lord's will that I become a priest, this obstacle can be overcome.

Prayer & Invitation I invite you, and encourage you, firstly, to pray for vocations to the priesthood and the religious life. Our Lord's Church is in need of men and women who will hear and answer his call. I also humbly ask and pray that you will be able to assist myself and all of my fellow aspirants in answering the call of the Lord, so that we can serve faithfully in our callings. I pledge to pray daily for you and for all of your intentions, that the Lord will guide you and answer according to what is of most benefit for your soul. Why I'm Writing

I am not only an aspirant to religious life; I am also a fundraiser for a class of aspirants pursuing the priesthood or religious life. A recent study confirmed that nearly 1 out of 2 aspirants have student loans debt which prevents them from entering their seminaries and religious communities. It is the only thing that prevents many – including me – from entering formation to become a priest, sister or brother.

I am seeking to raise the average aspirant student loan amount of $60,000 before December 31st for The Labouré Society, a Catholic non-profit that helps aspirants like me. Every aspirant has been accepted by their diocese or community and is required to work and liquidate their assets as to be able to make their own maximum loan payments. Through Labouré, my fellow aspirants and I work together as a class raising donations which will be divided amongst the class and ultimately applied to our remaining student loans. We are blessed to have this opportunity to share our love for God, our vocation stories, and to invite hundreds of individuals to support vocations like ours by financially investing in our future and the future of the church.

At the beginning of our class, we met and participated in an intensive 3-day training on the ethics, practice, and spirituality of fundraising. We are learning practical skills that will help us now and in our future vocations. We have also developed as a team to learn from and support each other. You can see our picture below.

At the end of our class, Labouré will issue awards to each aspirant based on individual effort and the total funds raised. They will administer the awards while we are in formation over a three year period (you can learn more about the program on the back of this letter). If we leave formation for any reason, we will resume our own payments.

Will you join our vocational journeys? Please partner with us and be part of our vocation team so we can answer God's call together!
