My name is Jean Clumson-Eklu. I am called to serve Christ and humanity as a member of the Brothers of Saint John. This is my story.

In the Beginning

Although I currently live in Stratford, Connecticut, I'm originally from Togo, a small French speaking country in West Africa. Growing up, my nine siblings and I were exposed to both the Catholic faith through my father, and the Protestant religion through my mother. Due to family complications, I spent much of my childhood in the homes of relatives, who took great care with me – something I viewed as a sign of God's loving providence.

My Faith

I was introduced to Christian fellowship while quite young as we participated in Protestant praise and worship gatherings. The biblical stories fascinated me and, as the oldest of my cousins, I soon took it upon myself to instruct them in the Christian faith using my book of illustrated bible stories and the little knowledge I'd gleaned from attending Catholic school.

Although I was attracted to the things of God in my early years, my faith diminished after confirmation and I rarely attended Mass. Four years later, a friend shared his experiences at summer camp with the Sisters of Saint John. He'd had so much fun I was determined to attend the following camp. With no financial means, the sisters allowed me to participate as a volunteer. While at camp, I acted in a play for the younger children entitled The Little Prince of Saint Exupery. Participating in this play helped me realize that Jesus was seeking my friendship and devotion rather than the stern, master/servant relationship I'd previously envisioned.

With my new understanding of Christian faith, I began helping the sisters prepare Catechism classes as well as summer camps, but more importantly my faith was growing deeper through praying the rosary and frequent Eucharistic adoration. At a subsequent camp I encountered the Brothers of Saint John, and was struck by their simplicity and sense of pure joy. It was about this time, during my senior year in high school, that I began reading the Lives of the Saints and desiring a closer union with Christ.

My Vocation

After a year and a half of praying the daily rosary for discernment, a moment of clarity came during Sunday Mass. As the priest raised the holy Eucharist, I said the words, "Jesus, I want to be completely Yours forever." At that moment, I realized the desire to belong to Jesus was not mine, but rather a proposal from Him to be His alone — He was merely waiting for my consent. When I answered yes, a feeling of peace and joy filled my heart.

“I immediately went to the campus chapel to pray and, while there, I met with divine providence.”

—Jean Clumson-Eklu

Some time later, while enrolled in medical school, I resolved to follow my calling to religious life. It seemed my spiritual struggles were finally over, but in fact they were only beginning. After announcing my decision to surrender my life to Christ as a Brother of Saint John, it quickly became apparent my family had different ideas. Many felt I should at least complete medical school before considering religious life, and their arguments eventually prevailed.

Once again immersed in my studies, and with little time for prayer and adoration, my spiritual life suffered. I drifted into apathy as I watched my vocation slipping away. One day, when I had hit an emotional rock bottom, a stranger walked up to me in the school cafeteria and said, “Jesus loves you.” Those were words I desperately needed to hear. I immediately went to the campus chapel to pray and, while there, I met with divine providence. A religious sister introduced herself and, after a brief conversation, arranged for me to take the spiritual exercises of Saint Ignatius of Loyola.

Called to Serve

The exercises were like a second conversion for me. They reinforced my understanding of Jesus’s words in John:15: “You did not choose me, but I chose you and appointed you so that you might go and bear fruit, fruit that will last...” Experiencing Saint Loyola’s exercises was a turning point for me; I’ve since decided not to pursue a career in medicine, while deepening my relationship with the Brothers of Saint John. Visits to their priories have confirmed my belief that I am called to serve Christ as a religious brother. I have graciously been accepted to enter formation once I am free of education debt.

Prayer & Invitation

Please pray that my fellow Labouré classmates and I can resolve the student loan debt blocking our path to religious life. As you know, the Church desperately needs new priests, sisters, and brothers. With your help, our class will soon reach its goal of serving Christ and humanity.

I am an aspirant of Labouré

I am also a fundraiser for a class of aspiring priests, sisters and brothers. A recent study confirmed that nearly 1 of every 2 aspirants is blocked from entering seminaries and religious communities due to student loan debt. It is the only thing that prevents many – including me – from entering formation to become a priest, sister or brother. My classmates are discerning all over the country.

With your help, we will rebuild the Church!

My goal is to raise $60,000 (the average student loan amount) before June 30th of this year for The Labouré Society, a Catholic non-profit that helps aspirants like me to answer God's call.

Every aspirant has been accepted by a diocese or community and is required to work to liquidate their assets in order to make their own maximum loan payments. Through Labouré, my fellow aspirants and I work together as a class, raising donations which will be divided amongst the class and ultimately applied to our remaining student loans.

We are blessed to have this opportunity to share our love for God, our vocation stories, and to invite hundreds of individuals to support vocations like ours by financially investing in our future and the future of the Church.

Will you join our vocational journeys?

Please partner with us and be part of our vocation team so we can answer God's call together!
