My name is Harrison Otto. I am discerning a call to serve Christ and His Church as a priest with the Byzantine Catholic Metropolitan Archeparchy of Pittsburgh. This is my story.

In the Beginning

I was born into a Catholic family in Houston, Texas, but other than simple things like praying before meals, we did not practice the Faith much at home. I was a well-behaved kid, but not especially pious; most of my interests included baseball, Boy Scouts, and video games. I went to college to study aerospace engineering and was fascinated by the idea of a career in space exploration. Towards the end of my first year of college, I had an epiphany that my lukewarm devotion was not enough to keep me from Hell. From then on, I began to practice my faith more intentionally.

The Call

Through my university's Catholic center, I began to study the great theologians and the Church's rich intellectual tradition. I served at the altar and participated in various religious activities. Eventually, I decided that I desired to directly serve the Church, which led to my serious discernment of a religious vocation.

In my studies, I'd learned about the Eastern Catholic Churches in communion with Rome, and found that Byzantine practices such as icons and the Jesus prayer resonated with me. I'd begun to incorporate such practices into my spiritual life, so decided to visit some Byzantine monasteries. While the Byzantine spirituality and Divine Liturgy spoke to me, I discerned that I was not called to monasticism, but rather began discerning the priesthood.

“I decided that I desired to directly serve the Church, which led to my serious discernment of a religious vocation.”

An Invitation

As I follow God's calling to the priesthood, I seek others to accompany me on this journey. May we meet so that I can share more? Until then, please keep me and my classmates in prayer, and feel free to reach out to me at Harrison.Otto@rescuevocations.org.

Why is Labouré Needed?

Escalating education costs block many aspiring priests and religious from answering God's call.

Many religious communities cannot afford to assume their aspirants' loan debts

Most dioceses / eparchies will allow some debt but have a limited threshold for acceptance

Rising formation costs often limit missionary activities and care of aging priests and religious.

How does the Mission Work?

OUR ASPIRANTS

Are discerning a vocation and have been selected into a diocese / eparchy or religious institute

Are blocked from entering or continuing vocational formation due to student loans and/or formation expenses

Are trained by Labouré in Catholic-based fundraising and are provided with practical tools, personal mentoring and accountability

Share their vocation stories with thousands of Catholic benefactors, thereby building a culture of vocations and evangelization
